A great battle was being fought. Column after column had been precipated, for eight mortal hours, on the enemy posted on the ridge of a hill. The summer sun was sinking to the west, reinforcements for the obstinate defender were already in sight, and it was necessary to carry the position with one final charge or all would be lost. A powerful crops had came up in season all would be right. The great conqueror, confident in its arrival, formed his reserve hill. The whole world knows the result. Grouchy failed to make his appearance. The imperial guard was driven back. Waterloo was lost. Napoleon died a prisoner at St. Helena, because one of his marshals was behind time.

The allies have lost nearly a year at Sevastopol, because they delayed a superfluous day after the battle of Alma, and came up too late for a coup de main, just twenty-four hours "behind time." Five minutes in a crisis is worth years. It is but a little period, yet it has often saved a fortune, or redeemed a people. If there is one virtue that should be cultivated more than another, by him who would succeed in life, it is punctuality; if there is one error that should be avoided, it is being behind time.

He had taken human life, but under circumstances of the greatest provocation, and public sympathy was active in his behalf. Thousands had signed been expected the night before, and though it had not come, even the sheriff felt confident that it would arrive in season. Thus the morning passed without the appearance of the messenger. The last moment was up. The prisoner took his place on the door, the cap was drawn over his eyes, and the bolt was drawn, Just at that instant a horseman came into sight, galloping down the hill, his steed covered with foam. He carried in his right hand a packet, which he waved partially to the crowd. He was the express slow, making its bearer arrive behind time.

By this time, however, she had nearly run her race, her steam was getting low, and at length her speed gradually diminished, her paddles stopped, and she ultimately gave in from sheer exhaustion. The crew from the light-ship were the first to board her, her own crew coming up about twenty minutes after. She was at length got into working order and brought safely into Southampton dock, where she was sentenced to undergo complete repairs after her frolic. It is said that the crew were fully justified in leaving her as they did, she being in imminent peril of going down .- N. O. Picayune.

A SAGACIOUS Dog .- The occupants of a store in Troy, N. Y., recently on opening it in the morning, found the floor to be on fire, and a favorite Newfoundland dog trying to subdue the flames with his fore feet and mouth. He had poured a rail of water which was Fancy Biscuits, Carolina and China Rice, Fresh ground Pepper, in the room into the hole, and had combated the fire Spices, Colman's Stone Blue, Salad Oil, Sauces. probably for several hours, preventing it spreading beyond a spot two or three feet square. His feet, legs, and mouth were badly burned.

A Man Harching Ducks .- An English paper tells the following story:

"A curious circumstance occurred at Eton Wick. A shoemaker had broken his leg and was confined to his bed. During his confinement a duck that had been setting on some eggs died, but the good wife unwilling to let the hopes of having a progeny of ducklings escape her, placed the eggs in bed with her sick spouse, and the man has actually hatched three eggs, and the brood is doing well.

MR. GRIP ATTENDS DIVINE WORSHEIP .-- The Polic Tribune elucidates excessive meaness in the following

Mr. Grip is one of our best known citizens. Mr. Grip is a worshipper of money and never allows a nearly elasped, but he hoped yet to pass the curve half-dollar to pass out of his hand without giving the "Eagle a squeeze that makes him hiss like a gander."
